

Student/research assistant job (m/f/d) at the Institute of Political Science, research and teaching unit International Organizations

As of October 15th, 2024, the professorship of International Organizations at the Institute of Political Science, Friedrich Schiller University Jena, seeks to hire a with a workload of 25h per month. The pay is €13,25 per hour for undergraduate students and €14,00 per hour for students holding a BA degree. The position is initially limited to a fixed term until October 14th, 2025, but renewable upon evaluation.

Student Assistant (m/f/d)

The research and teaching unit “International Organizations” headed by Jun.-Prof. Dr. Christian Kreuder-Sonnen deals primarily with questions related to the role and function of international organizations in the context of global governance, the exercise of political authority beyond the nation state, crisis politics and crisis management of international organizations, as well as the legitimacy problems of the liberal international order.

Your tasks:

- Supporting the team of the professorship in its research and teaching activities
- Literature search, proof-reading, data collection etc.
- Auxiliary activities such as scanning of teaching material or preparation of moodle folders

Requirements:

- Very good knowledge of theories of international relations and international institutions
- Basic knowledge in social science methods
- Good academic track-record and fluency in English (basic German is a plus)
- Confident handling of research databases and citation software
- Reliability and flexibility

Shortlisted candidates will be invited for interviews (in English) on August 2nd, 2024, via Zoom.

Severely disabled applicants are given preferential consideration if they have the same suitability, competence and professional qualifications.

Please send applications with the usual documents (motivation letter, curriculum vitae, transcript of records) by July 29th, 2024, in electronic form (one PDF) to Philip Tantow at sekretariat.io@uni-jena.de.